NEITHER EARTHQUAKES NOR HEAVENLY BODIES AFFECT CLIMATICAL CONDITIONS ON EITHER ATLANTIC OR PACIFIC COASTS.

The Monthly Weather Review contains the following interesting memorandum regarding the gulf stream and the weather.

The rather unusual weather of the spring and early summer of 1907, had lead many to ask for the cause, and whether, perhaps, climatic conditions have undergone a permanent change. The statement of the ship captain or, more properly, that of a newspaper correspondent, to the effect that the location of the gulf stream has been altered by earthquakes, has lead many to imagine that such a change would effect the climate, and that possibly the times of planting, harvesting, etc., will have to be revised.

Earthquakes Not Responsible. All of these suggestions and queries show such an entire ignorance of the laws that govern the atmosphere and the weather that it may be worth while to state authoritatively that earthquakes have no appreciable influence on the atmosphere, neither its temperature nor its wind nor its rain.

If any earthquake has had an influence on ocean current, such as the Gulf stream, it can only have been of the ocean; and such changes have always been so small that it is not believed by any that one, or a combination of several, such could have any appreciable influence on the gulf stream.

Does Not Affect Climate. The gulf stream does not itself have any direct specific influence on the climate of North America. In that part of its course off the coast of the South Atlantic states, easterly winds bring warm, moist air to the shore; but they would do so if there was no gulf stream, since this part of the ocean is warm water, and the easterly winds would always bring its warmth and moisture to the land. In the northern part of its course, opposite the middle Atlantic states, there is comparatively little east wind, and of course the west wind blows in the wrong direction.

Weather Conditions Vary. The weather conditions of the south vary from year to year, but the climate, considered as the average of a century, does not change. We have records of unusual variation ever since the arrival of Columbus, and we must expect the same for ages to come. There may possibly be cycles in climate, but we have not yet been able to discover them or define them; and if they exist they certainly represent such small periodic changes as would be utterly insignificant to the planter.

Air Waves Control Weather. The irregular variations in the weather from day to day, and from season to season are due to irregular changes in the general circulation of the atmosphere, by reason of which the air that moves toward the equator and returns toward the pole makes a different circuit every time. The great irregularities of the weather that effect mankind are not due to sun spots, nor to the moon or stars, nor to earthquake, nor to any other influence outside of the atmosphere, but result from its own internal mechanism. The great masses of air are surging to and fro over the earth's surface, boiling in a great caldron; and little eddies carried along in this water will protrude from the center to the edge and from top to bottom over and over, and yet never go through the same path twice. In a similar way, we never have the same identical sets of winds, temperatures, and rains year after year, but only general seasonal resemblances; and it would take several centuries to show the extreme limit of variability at any given locality.

Between the Rockies and the Atlantic, we are peculiarly subject to irregularities in cold northerly winds, which on the one hand, by pushing aside the warm moist air near the ground, give rise to snow, and the irregularities in our weather are traceable back to irregularities in the interchange of air between the tropics and polar regions.

Changes in Gulf Stream. It has been suggested that a thorough investigation be made into the reliability of the report as to changes in the Gulf stream—but this report is known to be utterly unreliable. The position of the Gulf stream can not be ascertained by one observation by any ordinary navigator. Such work would require that a vessel be especially fitted out for the purpose and sail to and fro across the stream at many points, making careful observations of temperature of the water and other data. This was done years ago most thoroughly by co-operation of the navy, the coast survey, and the bureau of fisheries, and if it were really worth while, the work could be repeated occasionally. But the exact course of the gulf stream has but little interest to meteorologists, however important it may be in questions bearing on the fisheries or on the drift of derelicts and other nautical matters. In fact, the surveys already made show that the surface waters of the gulf stream are liable to be pushed aside to a distance of a hundred miles by variations in the same winds that affect the climate. It is not the gulf stream that affects the winds and the climate, but the winds affect both the climate and the gulf stream. The winds are the prime factors in maintaining and altering the surface currents of the ocean.

STORY GIRL TO ASYLUM

Adjudged Insane by Commission and Will Leave This Morning.

Annie Story, the girl who was recently sent to the House of the Good Shepherd in New Orleans, and who returned here Sunday morning accompanied by Capt. J. A. Daw, of the police department, was yesterday adjudged insane by a commission named by the county judge.

When the girl arrived Sunday morning she was placed in a boarding house on North Hayne street, and not in the county jail, and there she will remain until this morning, when she leaves for the Florida Insane Asylum at Chattahoochee.

The hospital authorities were communicated with last night, and consented to having the girl brought over immediately, and Captain Daw, who had accompanied the girl from New Orleans, will leave with her this morning for the asylum.

MORE MONEY IS WANTED

Board of Works Meet in Special Session and Discuss Finances.

More money is needed by the Board of Public Works to run the department for the remainder of the fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, and in order to obtain that which is necessary to keep the department running, a special meeting of the board was held last night, with Chairman Daniel presiding, and Messrs. Forbes, O'Leary, Thiesen and Walker present.

The statement of the funds to the credit of the board showed that there remained only about $2,000 with which to operate for the remainder of the fiscal year. All of the tired teams and laborers have already been let out by the superintendent of streets, but the balance on hand was found insufficient to pay the salaries of even the regular employees. A committee was named to go before the City Council at its meeting tomorrow night, and request an appropriation of sufficient funds to carry the board through the fiscal year.

Cannon at Barrancas. The clerk was instructed to address a letter to the commander of Fort Barrancas, requesting permission upon the part of the city to allow the two large cannon and carriages which were donated the city, to remain at the fort for a period of about two months longer, as the funds now available will not permit them being moved to Pensacola.

NEW USE FOR BUTTER.

Prevents Boiling Over.

Coffee frequently produces biliousness and all of the accompanying distress, such as loss of appetite, dyspepsia which may develop a sensational peptic, bowel troubles, etc. A lady from Ill. says: "I had used coffee many years, and though I took great care in making it, felt its ill effects very seriously. It made me bilious and robbed me of my appetite for breakfast."

"I always had trouble with dyspepsia while I used it. I was told by physicians that I had catarrh of the stomach, and came to believe there was no help for me. Two years ago I quit the use of coffee an dragan to use Postum Food Coffee. At first I missed the stimulant, although the taste of the food coffee was delicious. In a few days I forgot all about my coffee, in the satisfaction I derived from Postum, and soon found that my appetite returned, the bilious condition and dyspepsia disappeared, so that now I am proud to say that at the age of seventy-five years I enjoy my food as well as when young and all my dyspeptic symptoms and stomach trouble have gone."

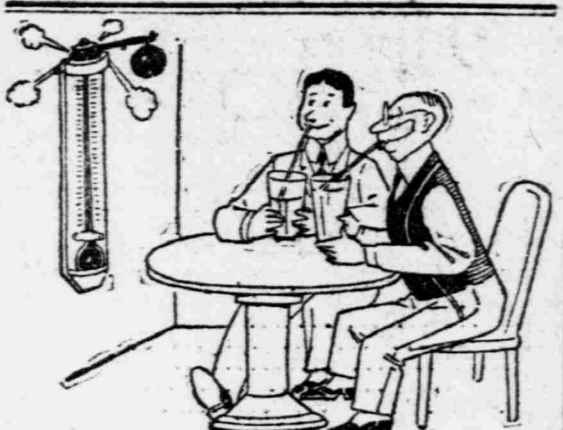

"These trouble had been with me for most of my life and it is really remarkable that I am now so perfectly well. To say that I am grateful does not express it. Once in a while I find a person who does not like Postum, but I always find it is because it has not been properly prepared. There is but one way to make good Postum, and that is to make it exactly according to directions, allowing it to boil full fifteen minutes, not after it is placed on the stove, but after the real boiling begins. Use a small piece of butter, about the size of a pea, to prevent 'boiling over.' Read 'The Road to Wellville,' in p. 68. 'There's a reason.'"

NOTICE

Is hereby given that we, the undersigned, on the 10th day of September, 1907 apply to the governor of the state of Florida, at Tallahassee, for letters patent incorporating us under the following charter:

We, C. C. Packard, I. W. Packard and H. J. Packard, do hereby make application for letters patent, incorporating us and our assigns into a corporation in accordance with the laws of the state of Florida, under the following charter:

The name of the corporation shall be The Packard Land Company, and its principal place of business shall be at Pensacola, Escambia County, Florida; but the Board of Directors may establish other places of business for said corporation within and without the State of Florida.

The general nature of the business to be transacted shall be that of real estate dealers and agents, and of dealers in stocks, bonds, and other securities of any government, state, or public or private corporation, or any other business, and of the buying and selling of property, both real and personal, either on commission or otherwise, and of the acquiring, holding and disposing of real and personal property for itself, or others on commission, and of the doing of any business appertaining to a general loan and property investment company, and the acquiring, using and disposing of property of all kinds, necessary or incidental to said business.

The amount of the capital stock shall be Twenty-five Thousand (25,000) dollars, to be divided into Two Hundred (200) shares, of the value of One Hundred (100) Dollars each; and the capital stock shall be payable in cash.

The corporation shall exist for Ninety (90) years from the date of the issuance of letters patent to it.

The business of the corporation shall be conducted by the following officers: namely: A president, a vice president, a secretary, a treasurer, and a board of directors, consisting of three stockholders, and by such other officers and employees as the Board of Directors may appoint. The president, secretary and treasurer may be filled by the same person. The directors shall be elected annually by the stockholders, and the other officers of the corporation shall be chosen annually by the Board of Directors at a meeting of the said Board held on the same day, after the meeting of the stockholders. The officers who are to conduct the business of the corporation until those elected at the first annual meeting, shall have qualified, shall be as follows:

C. C. Packard, President.
I. W. Packard, Vice President.
H. J. Packard, Secretary and Treasurer.
C. C. Packard, I. W. Packard and H. J. Packard, Directors.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation can at any time subject itself shall be One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars. The said subscribers subscribe to the following amounts of stock, to-wit: C. C. Packard, Toledo, O., 84 shares; I. W. Packard, Toledo, O., 84 shares; H. J. Packard, Pensacola, Fla., 84 shares.

My commission expires June 25, 1909.
